Workshop on Competitive Examination
Under
Alumni Engagement Initiative
30-07-2018
Report

As a part of alumni engagement initiative the Department of Economics collaborated with Competitive Exam Cell and organized a one day workshop on 'Selection of Reference Books and Concentration Techniques' on 30-07-2018. It was organized in Hall no 13. There were two sessions in this workshop. The sessions were conducted by the alumni of the institute who have been preparing for competitive examinations. The purpose of the workshop was to guide students about two important aspects of competitive examination.

Rasika Gawande delivered the first session and she focused on the topic 'Selection of Reference Books for MPSC Exams'. She said that many times students have potentials and are hardworking but they do not refer the right books. Unfortunately, there is lack of awareness about the right books in rural students. She enlisted the NCERT books which she termed as the backbone. She also referred to the books written in English. She said that the book written by Mr. Anand Patil is the best one. So students should read that as well.

The second session was delivered by Rohini Borse, the college alumna. Her topic was 'Concentration Techniques in Competitive Examinations'. She said that concentration is the bedrock of success in life. She cited the example of scientist like Einstein and J. C. Bose. According to her concentration is an art or skill that every aspirant must develop. She said that there are good titles available in market. The best way is to meditate and exercise. According to her, when we walk alone, we get good concentration. Reading with focus also develops concentration. She advised the students that the competitive exams required students to be very conscious of the current affairs. Therefore, a genuine interest in the people around us helps us deepen our perspective. Watching TV news carefully also develops concentration. Both of them answered the questions raised by the students. 86 students participated in the programme.
