Democracy Fortnight
REPORT

As a part of the observance of Democracy Fortnight, NSS, organized a lecture of Mr. V. R. Parsode, Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science, on 01/02/2019. The main intent of the lecture was to explain to students the concept of Good Governance which is the cornerstone of democracy.

In his introductory note, Dr. K. P. Bholane, explained the NSS initiatives for observing the Democracy Fortnight. He welcomed Mr. V. R. Parsode, the resource person.

Mr. V. R. Parsode began his lecture asking a few questions to the participants with regard to governance. He reiterated that governance means the process of decision-making and its implementation. He also talked about the bad governance. The key points in his lecture as given below:

- Good governance is important for the all-round development of people and sustainable development.
- There are actors of governance. Government is one of the most important actors.
- There are 8 major characteristics of good governance: participatory, consensus based, accountable, transparent, responsive, effective and efficient, equitable and inclusive and law abiding.
- Extra-constitutional power centres put obstacles
- Both in urban and rural setting there are challenges in the path of good governance
- It is difficult to achieve the goal of 100% good governance.
- A few nations could achieve the goal of good governance.

Outcome

- Students understood the concept of good governance and its contexts.
- They realized that the 8 features of good governance are important.
- They could analyze the challenges and difficulties in good governance
- They could also understand that common people's participation and monitoring on governance is important in democracy.
- Students realized that though 100% good governance seems impossible, we have to be consistent in pursuing the goal.
