Lecture on 'Youth in Today's Politics' by Prof. S. K. Rathod (03-02-2017)
REPORT

Prof. S. K. Rathod, Department of Sociology, Vinayakrao Patil College, Vaijapur, delivered a lecture on 'Youth in Today's Politics' on 03-02-2017. The objective of the lecture was to acquaint the students with the growing participation of youth in today's politics. Rani s Hadole, B. Sc. II, welcomed and introduced the resource person.

Prof. S. K. Rathod said that the word 'politics' has been used in a loose and casual sense. However, today the young people have tremendous scope in the developmental politics. Students are the leaders and they have to remember that they can transform the villages through their innovative ideas. We have a large number of problems at village level. Water crisis, sanitation, awareness about superstitions, access are some of the issues. Students should start their political journey from the village and in this regard Grampanchayat is the stepping stone. You are all above 18 and so eligible to contest the elections. You know your people very well and you also know their problems as well. So you can unite your people and use the available resources in order to benefit the villages.

He said that India is a secular country. We have unity in diversity and this is the soul of our constitution. In villages, people belonging to different religions, castes and cultures live amicable. Through politics instead of dividing them for vote politics you can unite them. This is a long term strategy. So people will stand by you for life time. If you divide them and win elections next time they will defeat you. At villages, young people can form clusters. You should bring the young people together and organize activities that can bring about qualitative change in their lives. You can organize the cultural activities for fostering the spirit of co-living, team spirit, co-operation and secularism. A good leader always try to go ahead with his people. You have the capability to lead your village. Sopan Vilas Jadhav, B. Sc. II proposed the vote of thanks and also conducted the proceeding.
