Lecture on 'What the Young Mind Wishes...' Dr. Bhimrao Jadhav (26-12-2018)
REPORT

Dr. Bhimrao Jadhav, Assistant Professor, Department of Zoology, tried to explore the wishes and aspiration of the young generation and counselled them as well. Trupti Kailash Kale, B. Com. II, welcomed and introduced the resource person.

At the outset, he defined the term 'young' by giving a few illustrations. He asked the students what was the purpose of their life. They answered this questions differently. He summarized that the purpose of human life is to search for God, Knowledge, Freedom and Immortality.

He said that the young people wish to be rich without much hard work. But it is a myth. If we take a look into our history we find that the great warriors never got anything tangible without hard work. They did not have the sophisticated technology that we have today at our disposal. Still they could fight with the enemies and safeguard their people. So leadership is very important. He said that sometimes the young people assume that it is the responsibility of the Government to transform the villages. However, it is not so. We have to participate in this process actively.

The young people today believe that they must go to big cities in search of lucrative jobs and a lead a life of ease and comfort. But our great freedom fighters too had those opportunity open to them. Mahatma Gandhi was a well-known lawyer in India and Africa too. Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Sardar Vallabhai Patel, Sri Aurobindo could have lead a happier life in England. But they had a noble mission before them. But they returned to India and battled with the British Empire. Today there are a large number of opportunities in rural India. We have fertile black soil in our area. You can start any small business here and provide employment to other people also. The young people think that there is corruption everywhere and politics is a bad field. The visionary people should take this responsibility. Instead of criticizing the politics, you should participate in the political process. You can contest election in your village. You can be a Grampanchayat Member and thus undertake initiatives for transforming your village. If 100 students from this gathering take charge of 100 Grampanchayat, we will have 100 model villages in the next 5 years. This is the way of progress and development. Prashant Ashok Deokar, B. Sc. I, proposed the vote of thanks. Nikhil Nana Gaware, B. Sc. II, conducted the proceeding.
