Lecture on 'Sustainable Water Management' by Dr. U. V. Panchal (29-12-2018)
REPORT

Dr. U. V. Panchal, Principal, Vinayakrao Patil Mahavidyalaya, Vaijapur, introduced the students with the concept of 'Sustainable Water Management' and stressed the need for waste water treatment in today's context. Pooja Dadasaheb Tribhuwan, B. Com. I, welcomed and introduced the resource person.

Dr. Panchal began his lecture by saying that as the population grows and the development gains pace, water resources would come under tremendous pressure. Today 60% population depends on agriculture and that means agriculture is the backbone of our economy. The rains have been very uneven and unpredictable in the recent years. As we want to achieve industrial development targets, we have to adopt sustainable water management practices. He said today the big cities rely on villages for water and water is delivered to cities from hundreds of miles.

But the question remains where the waste water goes. The answer is very sad. We don't treat the waste water. However, we can convert the waste water to the best water and reuse it. Today 80% of the waste water goes untreated and has serious environmental consequence. As per the reports of the Central Pollution Control Board, at present India has the capacity to treat about 36% of the water. This has to be accelerated.

He said that there are three methods of waste water treatment: Physical, biological and chemical. He said that we can start with the physical water treatment which involves steps like screening, sedimentation and skimming in order to remove the solids. It is easy because there are no chemicals required.

We have to take initiatives for waste water management. There is a need for policies and regulations. We need to make financial investment. Technological up-gradation is also required. Change public perception is the need of the hour. Participatory approach can also be very instrumental. Shubhangi Ganesh Gawali, B. Com. II, proposed the vote of thanks. Nilesh Ashok Gayke, B. Com. I, conducted the proceeding.
