REPORT

Department of Political Science series on “An Introduction to Important Laws” in collaboration with college Internal Quality Assurance Cell. Dr. J. P. Sonar, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry, delivered a lecture on ‘Pre-Conception, Pre-Natal Diagnostic Techniques Act 1994’ on 28/12/2021. Dr. V. R. Parsode, Associate Professor, welcomed the participants and the resource person. He also shared the objectives of the lecture series.

Dr. D. S. Salunke, Vice Principal, delivered an introductory remarks. He said that with a view to deepen the understanding of important laws that concern the common humanity, the IQAc and Department of Political Science has organized a weeklong lecture series on ‘Introduction to Important Laws’ from 27 to 31 December 2021. He said that being the citizens of India, we have to know about these laws. Very often we feel that we are not lawyers and so we need not know about the laws. However, we should try to know the important provisions of such important laws.

Dr. J. P. Sonar, the resource person, said that ‘Save Girl Child’ is our motto. He said that the act came into effect from 1st January, 1996, in order to check female foeticide. It prohibits both the determination and disclosure of the sex of foetus. It also prohibits advertisements relating to pre-natal determination of sex. It is punishable offence and the violation may lead to imprisonment and fine. He said that as per this law, the pre-natal diagnostic techniques, like ultrasound and amniocentesis are allowed in the following cases: foetus with genetic abnormalities, metabolic disorders, chromosomal abnormalities, congenial defects, haemoglobinopathies and sex linked disorders. The labs are not allowed to conduct tests for sex determination. So it is not allowed to communicate the sex of the foetus to the pregnant woman or her relatives. Dr. Rahul Pardeshi, Assistant Profesor, Vinayakrao Patil Mahavidyalaya, proposed the vote of thanks.
